AIMS AND SCOPE

The aim of this new journal is to provide an international forum for the exchange of ideas concerning the large and small scale application of superconductivity. The focus of the journal is on any process, device, equipment, component, system, machine or structure which incorporates a superconducting element or which in some way takes advantage of or relies on the unique electrical or magnetic properties of superconductors to achieve a useful function. Examples include analog devices and SQUIDs, which are generally produced from thin superconducting films; RF cavities, which can be made from thick films and coatings; magnets, motors, generators and energy storage devices which may require long lengths of wire, tape, or multi-filament cable. Articles describing unique processing technologies aimed at achieving necessary performance characteristics are also appropriate. More specifically, the journal will contain articles on actual systems which embody various applications. These systems might include particle accelerators, magnetic levitation systems, electromagnetic launchers, fusion magnets, magnetic separation and research magnets, storage devices, imaging magnets and the facilities needed to support or augment these systems e.g. controls or cryogenics.

Control Engineering Practice
1995: Volume 3 (12 issues)
Publishes papers which illustrate the direct application of control theory and its supporting tools in all possible areas of automation. The journal is centred in engineering - especially mechanical, electrical and electronic, aerospace and chemical engineering, but also includes social effects, cultural aspects, project planning and system design and economic and management decisions.

Engineering Failure Analysis
1995: Volume 2 (4 issues)
Publishes original, high quality research papers, communications, and occasional review articles describing the analysis of engineering failures and related studies.
It provides essential reference material and critical feedback into design process thereby contributing to the prevention of engineering failures in the future.

Chemistry

Bioorganic & Medicinal Chemistry
A Tetrahedron Publication
1995: Volume 3 (12 issues)
Provides an international forum for the publication of full original research papers and critical reviews on molecular interactions in key biological targets such as receptors, channels, enzymes, nucleotides, lipids and saccharides. The aim of the journal is to promote a better understanding at the molecular level of life processes, and living organisms, as well as the interaction of chemical agents with these.

Physics

Studies in History and Philosophy of Modern Physics
Studies in History and Philosophy of Science, Part B
1995: Vol. 26B (3 issues)
SHPMP covers developments in physics from the mid nineteenth century to the present. The kind of theoretical physics which has come to dominate the exact sciences in the twentieth century. The journal is unrivalled in addressing this area in which much of the original and creative work in history and philosophy of science is currently being carried out. The editors particularly encourage articles of interest to scientists as well as specialists in history and philosophy.
